VIA GALVESTON.

THE QUEEN GOES TO SANDRINGHAM.

MORE ABOUT H. M. S. SULTAN.

THE ARMY BILL IN AUSTRIA.

THE SAMOA QUESTION.

CARNOT DISGUSTED WITH THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE.

BOULANGER AND THE GOVERNMENT.

TWO PRIESTS SENTENCED IN DUBLIN.

London 10th—The Queen intends to visit Sandringham shortly.

The Admiral has ordered inquiries to be made into the measures adopted by the Duke of Edingburgh, when the Sultan went aground near Malta.

Vienna 10th—The lower Austrian Chamber has sanctioned the Army Bill as amended by the Hungarian Parliament.

Washington 10th—England, Germany and the U. States have decided to send a war-vessel each to Samoa until the conference in Berlin be closed.

Paris 11th—President Carnot appears to be disgusted with the Minister of justice owing to the latter's futile campaign against the League of Patriots.

Very many senators are desirous that Boulanger be tried at Versailles in order to avoid manifestations in Paris. It is stated that witnesses will be brought forward to prove that Boulanger had endeavonred to suborn the garrisons at Lapepiniere and Lyons. Allusion is also made to certain letters which confirm these charges.

Boulanger charges the Government with having secretly urged Germany to have him expelled from Belgium.

London, 11th—Sir Charles Russell said yesterday before the Commission; "It is only just that I should be told that Parnell and Davitt taught the Irish Americans to unite their efforts within the limits of the law. The National League was founded to uphold the rights of the people and bring about just legislation for Ireland." He said that Parnell had never been connected with any secret society and had never been on terms with Patrick Ford. Davitt, although a friend of Ford's, had never countenanced violence and had always opposed outrages.

Dublin, 11th—To-day two priests were sentenced to two months imprisonment without hard labor for violation of the Crimes' Act.

Luxemburg 11th—The Duke of Nassau was enthusiastically received to-day. He is prepared, he said, to shed the last drop of his blood for the good of his country.

MONTEVIDEO.

(From our special correspondent.)

AFFAIRS ON'CHARGE.

Montevideo 11th.

Obras firm at 73.
National Bank stock nominal 164.
Auxiliary Bank in very bad state.
Mr. Mulhall leaves to-night in the Apolo for B. Ayres.

MONTEVIDEO REVIVED.

The Bolsa of Montevideo is no longer the dull hum-drum place of former years, but the busy centre of life and trade and speculation. They have a fixed hour for certain stocks, which is different from the rule in Buenos Ayres. Thus from 12 to 1 they buy and sell Obras Publicas, in which stock there is at present the greatest speculation going on. At a later hour they buy and sell National Bank shares, and we imagine, at a still later hour they do Bonds, Cedulas and other stocks. The Bolsa business like many other things in Montevideo is as yet in its infancy. Credit amongst the brokers is so very circumscribed, that a deposit or guarantee has to be given on every operation, which of course checks speculation, and herein may have a merit, but if a dozen or so of highly responsible brokers made for themselves a ring, and deposited in a special fund, say 20,000 pats. gold each, then business on the Montevidean Bolsa would run smoother. On the Buenos Ayres Bolsa such large deposits are not necessary, as the "boleto" of any of our first-class brokers stands for more than $20,000 gold. In company with Dr. Kimball, Mr. Panelo, and Mr. J. B. Gahan, we visited the Bolsa of Montevideo on Monday. The place was crowded. We met many friends from Buenos Ayres; all spoke of the improved aspect of Montevideo and the great turn for the better in everything within the last two years. The streets are noisy and crowded; new houses are going up in every direction, and the shopkeepers and "Registreros" say they were never doing better. There is a busy hum in all the principal streets, not so great as in Buenos Ayres, but still sufficient to show that there is something doing and something going on.

Mr. Casey is, perhaps, the most central figure in the market to-day, having had the great pluck to take up the Obras Publicas company when all but ruined by its manager, Mr. Reus. At first Mr. Casey found great difficulty, but both the government and the market saw that his success was their success, and now he is receiving every support from both, so we imagine that the great dangers that threatened the Montevidean market are passed. The Obras Nacionales Company has been put on its legs by Mr. Casey, and the gigantic "Obras" at the Barrio Reus, which were temporarily stopped, are now resumed, and the streets and houses under construction will be finished and then sold off at auction by the Company. We shall reserve for another letter the description of this Barrio Reus, which is, perhaps, the greatest work on this continent attempted by one man, 530 neat two and three-story dwelling houses, built in the London style of suburban terraces, such as seen at Earls' Court, Kensington, Cambridge Terrace on the Edgware Road, etc., eighteen squares of lanes and avenues, stables, etc. We believe the business will come out all right now, since Mr. Casey has taken it up, but to our mind, in a scheme so vast, and where the health and convenience of the people are at issue, it is the government of the country that should have taken it up when Reus left off, as the Barrio Reus is nothing short of a new town pitch-forked into the city of Montevideo. We hear that a new Bolsa is to be built by a joint stock company, composed of brokers and members, on the same style as in Buenos Ayres. The present Bolsa is a private concern rented to the brokers, who now want a Bolsa of their own. We met Mr. Piñero, the well-known capitalist and saladerista, of Montevideo, on 'Change. He says affairs never looked better, and the country is progressing more rapidly than ever. The Custom House receipts for last month passed 900,000 gold and nearly touched a million, against 450,000 per month a couple of years ago. They are now taking a census, and he assures me that the population of Montevideo is now over 200,000. There was great talk on the Bolsa about the rise in gold in Buenos Ayres. Many attribute it to the alarming news published about Brazil. The Siglo this morning publishes a very sensible article on the subject and says the news is a gross exaggeration, but very many people here think there is more in it than appears. The Brazilian Government did not relish President Juarez's visit to Montevideo, nor the proposed visit of President Tajes to Buenos Ayres. We, for our part, hazard the opinion that as long as Dom Pedro reigns there will be no war between the two countries and whatever disputes may arise will be settled by arbitration. Dom Pedro is one of the wisest and most enlightened of monarchs, and his life is a guarantee of peace. After his death, there is no responding for events.

ARGENTINE EXPORT TRADE.

Antibes, March 9th.

The trade report for 1887 which is now before me, although a year old, contains much instructive matter, especially as regards exports. Taking the 10 principal items, and comparing the returns for 1887 with those of the average of 5 years preceding, we find that 3 articles show an increase, 4 have declined, and the rest are stationary, viz.:—

	1882-86.	1887.
Grain, tons	202,000	605,000
Hides, No.....	2,260,000	3,210,000
Linseed, tons	38,000	81,000
Wool, million lbs...	264	240
Beef and cattle.....	$5,500,000	4,100,000
Copper, tons.....	260	140
Tallow, do.	17,000	7,000
Goatskins, do.....	920	770
Sheepskins, do.....	28,000	30,000
Hay, do.....	12,000	12,000

The increase of grain and decline of wool show what a change is coming over Argentine industry, partly caused by the rapid influx of immigrants. Grain exports have reached an average of 12,000 tons weekly, enough to feed a population of 4,000,000 souls, the crops in the republic now leaving a surplus twice as great as that of the Austrian Empire. As tillage increases, the value of the land will keep rising, and the wandering habits of the "paisano" give place to the more regular and law-abiding manners of people who follow the plough. There will be, moreover, a rapid improvement in the breeds of all kinds of cattle, and pastoral farming will be conducted in a more careful method.

We cannot, meantime, overlook two drawbacks that it would be well to guard against. Firstly, if your exportation of grain, which is now 24 million bushels yearly, increases during the next five years as in the past you will ship 72 million bushels in 1892, or about half the quantity now exported by the United States. This would be very well if you were sure of a good market, but we see that already the production of grain is so great as to depress prices exceedingly. Take the average prices of wheat, barley and oats in the latest Agricultural Report of the British Board of Trade (page 118) as follows:—

	Annual averages 1875-77	1885-87
	shillings	shillings
Wheat, quarter.....	49	32
Barley, „	38	27
Oats, „	27	18

This decline is not the sudden result of passing events, but has been steady and continuous. It is not in the nature of things that prices can go back to what they were ten years ago, which would mean a rise of 50 per cent.

The second drawback is inseparable from tillage in countries exposed to drought, namely the danger of losing a crop, which is the sole sustenance of hundreds of thousands of people. Hence I consider the grain industry very risky, and calculated sooner or later to demand special guarantees from government in the form of "bounties" for every ton exported, which would be a tremendous burthen to the country. At the same time I see that a great development of tillage is now inevitable, as the readiest and most profitable employment for immigrants.

The decline of sheep-farming would be a deplorable result if it were the price to be paid for increase of tillage. The foregoing table shows that the wool export of 1887 was nearly 10 per cent below the average of the 5 preceding years, whereas sheepskins shewed an increase of 8 per cent. Mankind has not yet discovered a safer or more lucrative business than sheepfarming, and whatever militates against it in Buenos Ayres should be regarded as a public evil. One is forced to ask why do your flocks diminish when you have the immense Pampas of the South and West? From Tronquelauquen to Fraile Muerto there is a vast territory at present almost unoccupied, and the same may be said from Pequajo to Bahia Blanca. Flocks usually double in less than 5 years, yet in the last 5 years your sheep have actually declined 10 per cent. Somebody may say the cause is the Frozen Mutton business; but this is only 30,000 tons yearly, say 1,000,000 sheep which is a mere nothing. The annual increase, apart from killing, cannot be less than 25 millions, out of which you require for meat for home use something between 10 and 15 millions, allowing one sheep per month for each inhabitant or one per week for each family in the city and province of Buenos Ayres: thus, there should be a steady increase of 10 per cent, or at least 5 per cent yearly in the flocks.

The exports of meat and cattle likewise show a decline, the figures for 1887 being 25 per cent below the average of five preceding years. This is another indication that pastoral industry suffers depression. Far be it from me to approve of the iniquitous bounties given by Congress for exporting jerked beef. But I would, as far as possible, lighten those taxes that press upon estancieros. No country in the world has such advantages for pastoral industry as the Argentine Republic, and no commodity is at present so needed in Europe as meat. It follows that you ought to do your best to send your 10,000 tons of meat every week, instead of grain, of which you have a surfeit. Argentine beef has hitherto borne the reputation of being fit only for Cuban negroes, but you have merely to improve the breed and then you will have an unlimited market. It is to be observed that, while your exports of beef and cattle have diminished, that of hides shows an increase of one million in number, or 50 per cent, which I cannot understand, as I have read of no great floods or drought to account for heavy losses. Tallow has fallen 60 per cent in quantity, another item which demands an explanation. Linseed has more than doubled, but I am told this is a perilous crop. The only item of mining products is copper which has diminished 50 per cent; this is the more surprising because we were led to believe that the new railways north and west through the mining provinces would stimulate this class of products ten-fold. Perhaps with the great influx of immigrants labor may become cheaper and more abundant, and many industries may thus thrive. But it is essential for cheap labor to have low import duties, as the cost of living is much enhanced by high tariffs. As population increases you will be able to reduce the import dues, the number of consumers rising every month and in this filling the treasury.

ROSARIO

(From our own Correspondent.)

April, 10..

Rosario is in the happy possession of one of the biggest Syndicates in this happy country; and this same syndicate is just now exercising the mind of old Rosary, as the Standard irreverently dubs the Chicago of the Southern hemisphere. Hem! The origin of this Syndicate was the concession to a certain Perroni of the little job of paving the city with 'adoquines'. The unknown name of Perroni soon disappeared, and the real Simon Pure, Mr. Juan Canals, took his place. Mr. Canals is a successful merchant in Rosario, and has always borne a high character as a member of the "haute commerce"; but it is only quite lately that he has blossomed out in the character of a daring and energetic empresario.

The contract for the adoquinado meant an expenditure of some five millions; Mr. Canals had nothing but the capital of his commercial house, which of course could not be available. His first operation was to get money from the Hypothecary Bank for which purpose he managed to have lands valued at twenty times their actual value. This little operation scandalized the public, but Mr. Canals's argument was: These lands are only worth one dollar per vara now, but I am going to make them worth twenty. He has kept his word; but it is a dangerous precedent.

But what was a paltry half million to the expanding genius of Mr. Canals, who just awakened to the fact that he was born to greater destinies than to deal in cargoes of sugar and Catalan wine, and Messrs. Parry and Co's. Angostura Bitters; so he formed a Syndicate, (magic word!). The public do not know exactly who compose the syndicate; (assuredly our old acquaintance, Perroni, is not one of them), but the upshot of Mr. Canals's genius is that all that is influential in the province, Legislative chambers, Governor, Ministers, Provincial Bank, Municipalities, aye, even the National Government, are more than friendly with this gentleman who is proving himself a veritable Benjamin Rathburn; I only hope he will have a more fortunate ending.

Soon the Rosario Municipality entered the financial world as a big borrower; a loan of a million sterling was negociated, and soon after another of a million and a half of dollars, and the proceeds handed over to the fortunate syndicate. Then it got the contract for building the superb "Palais de Justice", of course in the Western suburbs, where the property of the syndicate is mostly located. Then the National Government contracts with the syndicate for finishing the Rosario Port Works.

It cannot be denied that men of the type of Mr. Canals are great factors in the progress and development of a town. It is a foolish thing to cry out that it is all to enrich themselves. Of course self interest is the prime motor in this as in most enterprises, but the town is also a gainer. The beautiful boulevard Santafecino has increased a hundred fold the value of the property of the syndicate, but then it is a fine public promenade. The pavement will be costly, but we may expect that in time Rosario will be the best paved city in South America. A Palais de Justice costing a million of dollars is probably a premature luxury, but it will be a credit to the town; and we may confidently hope the Port works in the hands of the syndicate will be finished.

But what the public have truly a right to deplore, and what fills the community with indignation, is the complete absence of municipal control over the operations of the syndicate. Mr. Canals and his coadjutors are allowed to do just as they please; and if they had bought over all the authorities they could not be more omnipotent. It being so, and the Municipality a mere puppet in the hands of the syndicate, Messrs. Canals and Co. would be little less than angels if they did not place their own interests before those of the public. And this they have done on a very alarming scale, amongst other thing leaving many central streets unpaved, or paving them in a wretched manner, while they have carried their gangs of paviours out of town to adoquinar the streets intersecting their own extensive properties. Of course if we had a Municipality worthy the name, this could never happen.

The last "golpe de teatro" of the syndicate is a proposition to take over the public "abattoirs;" or "mataderos" and the markets for 40 years, at a yearly rental of 180 thousand dollars, increasing the sumby 20 thousand dollars every five years. This daring project of Mr. Canals has raised a great uproar in Rosario; it is the topic of the day. The respectable part of the press attack it, and public opinion is dead against it. The project, of course, is unconstitutional, but that is of little consequence. The question is will it benefit the town? As in everything else (our inept Municipality keeps the abattoir in a filthy condition. There is no doubt that in the hands of Mr. Canals the question of supplying meat to the public would be infinitely improved; but there is something more. It seems that the poor public will be called on to pay fifty per cent more than it does now.

By calculations and figures, based on statistics, it appears that while at the commencement of the second lustre the Corporation would receive a rental of 200 thousand dollars, the annual receipts of the syndicate would be 800 thousand dollars.

Suppose the syndicate to be composed of six persons, this would give each of them a nice little income of a hundred thousand dollars a year, that with virtuous endeavours might even be increased.

Where will the ambition of the syndicate stop? The celebrated Mr. Rathburn, already mentioned, was himself a syndicate. He turned Buffalo into a grand city, spacious streets, splendid edifices, hotels, theatres, etc; in fact he transformed the city. Then he opened banks, founded hospitals and schools, libraries. He appeared a veritable Genius of the Lamp. Poor fellow! He died in the Penitentiary, after having ruined, with the best of good faith and excellent intentions, some ten thousand families.

Some people think that it is impossible to set the river Parana on fire; it is, however, not beyond the probabilities. The English barque Anna came into port with a good many thousand boxes of kerosene. The ship must have suffered from stress of weather, for almost her entire cargo is damaged, and a large quanity of the boxes of oil were broken. A good deal of this has found its way into, or rather onto the river, and nothing is wanting but a lighted match to set the Parana on fire. We know that some parts of the Caspian Sea, contiguous to springs of petroleum, are often seen on fire, presenting a very strange and wierd appearance. The phenomenon is often witnessed too in some of the rivers of Siberia; sometimes the navigation is completely stopped by the field of flames. It would be a nasty thing if the kerosene in the Rosario port were to take fire. It would be worse than the English fireships in Napoleon's fleet in Bologne.

After ten or twelve days of fine weather we have had torrential rains that have lasted a week. To-day a welcome pampero set in that has raised the hopes of the drenched inhabitants of Rosario, who are wringing themselves out and hanging themselves out to dry.

On the 9th ult., at Mentone, France, the wife of Mr. George Perkins presented her husband with a daughter.

MONUMENTAL BUILDINGS IN B. AYRES.

(Communicated)

It is funny, but it's true. In spite of telegraphs, hundreds of mail steamers, and millions of letters that take news to Europe about the River Plate countries, many people are induced to believe that Europeans coming to these parts of the world find only Indians living in horrible houses, without windows and so on. That this is not the case we have often endeavoured to state, and surely many people know it at present, but that there are still some that do not believe in it, we are aware by so many articles published in Continental papers. We say in Continental papers; because our friends and countrymen at home have experienced the nonsense of such tales by the splendid profits they have made by investing capital in the River Plate countries, especially in the Argentine Republic.

He who has occasion to deal with commercial people in South America knows the firm Ernesto Tornquist & Co., and surely, whoever formerly came from Europe to do business of thousands or millions of dollars with that house, was certainly much surprised to find such powerful people in such a modest building as the one they occupied in Calle Maipu. How many millions of dollars worth of business may have been done in those narrow rooms, left for ever by the intelligent and working association now removed to the splendid saloons in Calle Piedad. May the splendor of the new rooms we are going to describe further on give new and good ideas to the managers of the world-known firm, for their own sake and for the prosperity of the country.

On a space of 26 meters in front by 31 meters in depth have been constructed in about 22 months two splendid houses well worth visiting by anyone who likes to form his own opinion of what is going on in town and in the world. Before the building was finished those who saw the works anxiously asked what the house would be, nothing but iron pillars and beams to be seen. A few weeks after the iron construction was finished a monumental building presented itself to the hasty walker, showing that the art of building has much progressed in our days, that houses can be built in such a way that at any time the inside walls may be placed from one place to another according to the ideas of the owner, certainly the first house of this style in South America.

Both houses have large patios lighted from above and assured against rains and "pamperos" by well and solidly constructed wiadows, opened and shut by ingenious machinery. The constructors, the well-known architects, Messrs. C. and H. Altgelt, Germans who studied in Berlin, were anxious to have these ingenious constructions made by their countrymen, who placed them in Calle Piedad three months after the order had been sent away from here, which shows that the German iron works were able to fill the order in about a month's time. May this be a hint for constructors of other countries.

On both sides of the patio are the various offices of E. Tornquist & Co., occupying the whole of the principal or large house and part of the smaller one. Marble from Tandil and chalk stones from Hinojo have been employed for socles, etc., the style being the "Renaissance" of the Berlin school. The front of the buildings is serious, elegant and monumental, like those of the new imperial buildings in Berlin.

The distribution of rooms, etc., of the chief house is according to the purpose it has to serve. Two large cellars and three floors, the former serving as deposits for goods, fitted with hydraulic elevators and containing at the same time the machinery for electric light. Both the houses have, besides gas, the advantage of the fashionable electric illumination, without which high life can no longer live in Buenos Ayres. The first floor, about 6 metres long and 5½ wide, is made for the store, the first floor being reserved for the importation department, the general manager's saloons, offices, technical department and so on. On the second floor we find a large saloon, Gothic style, for commercial meetings; and besides this there are a number of lodging-rooms for the head clerks of the house, libraries, etc.

The smaller house, "la casa chica" is only in the lower part separated from the "casa grande". It has three cellars, well aired and lighted, which have been let to a German bar-keeper. These cellars are fitted out in a most luxurious way, all according to the old German style, "gaua altdeutsch" and certainly very interesting to look at for those who have not visited this class of restaurants in Germany.

All the iron work of the building has been made in Germany, and also all the articles and machines that were not constructed in Buenos Ayres. Anybody that examines the building will be obliged to admit that Germany has done its best. Surely the Germans of Buenos Ayres have reason to be proud of this "show" of German industry, and to be thankful to the architect for having placed in one of the principal streets of the South American metropolis a speaking proof of German intelligence and labour. But Germans are always ungrateful; and instead of congratulating Messrs. C. H. Altgelt, they all blame them. And, dear reader, for what reason? I am sure you won't guess it. For having first finished the offices of Ernesto Tornquist & Co. before making ready the beer-shop of Auc.

A STROLL ROUND THE PARIS EXHIBITION WORKS.

BY JULIUS M. PRICE.

Very few people, except those who have recently been in Paris, have any idea of the magnitude of the preparations for the forthcoming Exhibition. That it is destined in point of size alone to eclipse any other Exhibition the world has yet seen is to describe it very mildly. It stretches right away from the Trocadéro to the Square des Invalides, and covers an enormous extent of ground, every inch almost of which is to be occupied. Besides the Eiffel Tower, there are other buildings which from an architectural or engineering point of view will alone make the world talk. I had an opportunity a few days ago of going round the "Chantiers" with one of the officials, when we started from the entrance at the Pont de Jéna, entering the Champ de Mars through the enclosure on which stands the Eiffel Tower.

THE MONUMENTAL FOUNTAIN.

Immediately facing one, and under the centre of the tower, will be a large monumental fountain which M. Berger, the director of the works, has decided to erect, and all round this the grounds will radiate, so to speak. Already all the trees are planted on either side of the broad gravel walk, and gardeners are busy getting the ground ready for turfing. What struck me here as being particularly interesting were two souvenirs of the 1878 Exhibition; there are the ornamental lakes which were so much admired at the time: they have been practically untouched since then, and very probably the swans and ducks are descendants of the original ones. The authorities, I understand, intend this time making a great feature of the grounds, as it is proposed to keep the Exhibition open in the evening, and to have al fresco concerts, after the style of our recent South Kensington ones, which proved such a success. With this view special attention is being paid to the electric lighting arrangements of the buildings and the gardens, and from what I hear some startling effects will be the result. The Eiffel Tower is to have an enormous arc light on its extreme summit, and this, it is expected, will not only light up the entire Exhibition, but the surroundings also for a considerable distance: there will also be other lamps at intervals all the way up to the top, which will add to the general effect. The fountains more especially will be particularly fine, as they are to be illuminated by some novel system which is to eclipse anything yet undertaken that way; it is needless to say that the electric light will again here be extensively used, and there is some surprise in store, for it is hinted that coloured light can be thrown into the water from some hidden source, the effect produced being most weird and totally unlike any previous displays of the kind. The main Exhibition buildings form a sort of quadrangle round the Eiffel Tower.

JUST LIKE A COLOSSAL RAILWAY STATION.

Immediately facing one on entering is the pavilion of the Ville de Paris, with its imposing dome covered with bright-coloured mosaic tiles; on either side are the Palais des Beaux Arts and the Arts Libereaux, also with domes with R.F. inscribed on them. At present the general impression on entering the unfinished building is that it is a colossal railway station in course of erection, and this idea is still further helped by the noise of steam engines which is heard everywhere, and the railway lines which run through each gallery. These lines are in direct connection with the Mont Parnasse Junction, so the exhibits will be brought right into the exhibition before being removed from the railway trucks. The value of this arrangement can easily be understood, and will doubtless prove an immense boon to exhibitors. On the left hand on entering from the Pont de Jéna is the Palais des Beaux Arts, which is still very unfinished, although enough of the exterior decorations are completed to enable one to pretty well judge what the ultimate effect will be. All along the frieze will be panels supported by plaster figures which in themselves are no mean works of art, and on each of these panels will be inscribed the name of some great artist of the century; the ironwork will be painted blue and gold, and the general appearance is certain to be very artistic. The interior is at present so unfinished that it would be unfair to describe it. Passing through the Fine Art section, we come to the gallery alloted to Great Britain. This portion is without a doubt the most advanced of any, though this may possibly be owing to the fact that last year the great banquet to the provincial mayors was held in this gallery, and it was hurried on more than the others so as to be ready for the occasion. Mr. Lilley, who is the contractor for the British Commission, was away in England at the time of my visit, but thanks to the courtesy of Mr Dark, his representative, I was shown all over the arrangements, which promise to hold their own from an artistic point of view with those of any other country. The large screen surrounding the section struck me as being a very original and striking piece of work.

THE BIGGEST COVERED SPACE IN THE WORLD.

Passing further along through a very wilderness of unfinished galleries which stretch away on either side, we come to the large building of the Ville de Paris, with its unfinished dome, and then on through more galleries, till at length we arrive in the most important of all the buildings, to my mind, the Gallerie des Machines. This, next to the Eiffel tower, is certain to be the talk of everyone, in fact many already think it more wonderful, in its way, than the tower. It is certainly a triumph of engineering and is far and away the largest covered span in the world. I was only able to get a few rough figures as to its dimensions, but what I got will convey perhaps some slight idea of its colossal proportions. Its length is 1,600 ft., the width of its span is 375 ft., the entire width being 500. Next to such figures as these Olympia sinks into insignificance. I hear it has been decided to make it a permanent structure and to use it after the Exhibition as a cavalry drill ground, and it certainly seems to me to be admirably adapted for such a purpose, or even for race meetings. Passing out from here leads us to the Galerie Cesaix, the entrance to which fell down some time back, owing, I understand, to the scaffolding being removed too soon. Whatever, however, was the cause, this accident is said to have cost the contractor, Monsieur Duclos, no less than 75,000 fr. A committee is still sitting to decide whether it is to be rebuilt in the original style, and also whether the corresponding entrance on the opposite side by the same contractor is to remain as it is.

THE COUNTRY OF THE SUN.

All along the outer walk of this side of the Champ de Mars, facing the roadway, there is being built what will no doubt be considered one of the most interesting sights of all. It is to be called the "Galerie des pays du Soleil." At present the only portion which is at all recognizable is the "Rue au Caire," which will represent a narrow Oriental street with its bazaars and cafés and overhanging windows with their Cairene work shutters. It promises to be really a most artistic representation of Eastern life and will be most interesting. I had a chat with the Egyptian Commissioner, the Baron Delort, who informed me that he is building all this at his own personal expense, and from his own designs. He is certainly a very clever artist and architect, as this street will prove when finished. He then told me in laughing confidence that he was only employing, all told, four men to build his street, odd men in every sense of the word. "You see that chap up there finishing that cupola," said he, pointing to where a workman was accupied in putting the finishing touches to a small dome. "Well, he's a policeman off duty, who is glad of a job. I have also an ex-waiter and a soldier working for me, and à la rigueur I lend a hand myself." He then told me that to impart still more realism to the scene he had a lot of camels and white donkeys coming, that there would be a Cairene bazaar and native workmen in it occupied at their various trades, and that there would be also an Egyptian club-house for the use of all who were personally connected with Egypt. My time was getting short, so I was obliged to hurry away, much as I should have liked to stay and hear more about his plans.

Railway Items.

A PROTEST FROM RIO CUARTO. FRESH MATERIAL FOR CENTRAL NORTHERN EXTENSION. MESSRS BARBIERI AND CO'S TRAMWAY PROJECT SHELVED.

Railway affairs appear to have fallen to a very low level up country. Things are going from bad to worse. Railway-managers are imprisoned; trains jump off the rails; the rails jump off the bed, and the passengers run the risk of jumping the life to come. Yet there appears to be no remedy at hand. Yesterday another protest was received by Dr Araoz from Rio Cuarto, exposing a sad state of affairs. In this protest a crowd of passengers give vent to their indignation. The line was out of order. The train was delayed and as no steps were taken to repair the damaged part of the line, the travellers were "stuck." So long as the permanent way is left to take care of itself these mishaps will occur. Delays are inevitable, and the travelling public must suit itself to circumstances. We hear that Dr Araoz is preparing to deal energetically with the railway crisis, and to bring about a resumption of traffic.

Two decrees in connexion with railways were signed last evening by the President; one ordering the Board of the Northern Railway to place their line in proper working order, and the other declaring open to public service the second part of the Central Argentine Railway bridge across the Rio Tortugas.

Messrs Meincke and Co. have applied to Government for privilege to build a tramway along the Avenida Mayo. They have a capital of 6 millions. They require no guarantee, and the line would pass over to the State after 90 years working. The applicants would finish the line within 3 years.

In the report of the City of Buenos Ayres Tramway Company, the directors recommend a dividend of 4s. and a bonus of 1s., tax-free, £10,000 being placed to the contingent fund, and £5,577 carried forward. Now shares amounting to £60,000 are to be issued prorata to the existing shareholders at a premium of £3 per share to represent the amount overspent for capital purposes, for which the contingent fund has been temporarily available.

Messrs. Murrieta and Co. have sent out for Central Northern Extensions railway material to the value of £15,081, per Milton and Bellenden.

Messrs. Clark and Sanford, who purchased the Andine Railway, intend putting up fencing at all the level-crossings.

The local Board of the Transandine Railway have submitted to Government for approval the plans of the deposits and workshops in Mendoza.

The Roads and Bridges Inspection Board have reported on Messrs Barbieri and Co's. project for a tramway from here to Adrogué. The Board advise the Government to throw out the scheme.

ENGLAND'S CHANCES IN WAR

PREPARING AGAINST AN INVASION.

In the House of Commons on Tuesday night 12th ult. Mr. Stanhope, the Secretary for War, made a very interesting statement as to the steps that would be taken in case of a threatened invasion to place the United Kingdom in a position of defence.

The Militia would be at once embodied and the Reserves would be called up. The Volunteers and the Yeomanry, or such part of them as the emergency might require, would be called out. In the event of an emergency the first duty which devolves upon the land forces is the protection of our ports of coaling stations, and orders would be at once issued to lay down submarine mines. The net stop in organization is the provision of garrisons. The whole of the garrisons for our fortresses and commercial ports at home are told off. In the latter case they consist exclusively of Militia and Volunteers, but the total strength of these garrisons for our home ports alone amounts to less than 124,000 men. The particular duties to be performed by each corps have been laid down by the general officers commanding in their schemes of defence. The whole defence of the Thames is now placed under the control of a single general officer, instead of dividing it, as has hitherto been the case, between several districts. The questions of providing adequate garrisons for the fortresses and coaling stations abroad has undergone the most careful consideration, and the establishmeut of the army has this year been increased in order to deal with it.

Like every foreign country, we must rely, on the outbreak of emergency, on obtaining as quickly as possible a large additional supply of horses. Abroad it is universally accomplished by requisition. And we have now for the first time in this country, under the National Defence Act of last year, full legal powers for this purpose. But we have not stopped there. We have established a system of registration, by means of which, at a very small cost to the public, we have a list of horses on a register, which can be obtained at the shortest notice.

Partly from motives of economy, and partly because no general scheme whatever existed for the mobilization of our troops, there has been a constant attempt to crowd everything into Woolwich; and, unless a remedy had been applied, the consequences, in the event of a sudden order to call out all our available defensive forces by land and sea, must have been grave delay, if not something much worse. Decentralization is now actively going on. The places where, for convenience and rapidity of concentration, stores should be placed have now been for the most parts selected. Some buildings have been acquired or adapted for the purpose; in other cases new store-houses are being built. Many of our arms and accoutrements have already been decentralized, and the work is rapidly proceeding.

The Reserve being called up we could put into the field at short notice for home defence a force of 80,000 regular troops, with a proper proportion of all arms of the service, with the exception of certain small units advisedly left to be organized on mobilization, but the machinery for creating which has been worked out under regulations already compiled. Lists of officers to fill all the commands and staff posts have been prepared. Any deficiency in horses, not provided under our system of registration, would be made good by requisition. Ten days should therefore suffice to assemble the men and horses and distribute clothes and arms. There are more than sufficient stores in hand for the requirements of this force operating at home. This field army would be at once concentrated at railway junctions or other points which have been carefully chosen, with the view of affording the greatest facility for moving the troops at a few hours' notice to any point that may be threatened. And every detail required for this oper

Stocks were again in the waverish mood to-day in spite of the confident anticipations entertained since yesterday of a speedy reaction, and judging by the business done and sellers offering, combined with the protracted tightness of paper, there can be no doubt that a further decline in quotations is only unfortunately too probable. If matters were to continue as at present up to the settlement there would indeed be no escape for the bulls. They are admittedly very short, and as the private banks discount nothing the shares have to come eventually on the market, for lack of money to carry them. However, there is much confidence reposed in the Ministerial campaign against gold, which it is thought will crush the premium and thus remove all obstacle to liberal discounts. Then would the tables be turned, and those who have been speculating for a fall in stocks "cornered;" but as matters stand the bears are in undivided and unchallenged possession of the market.

Operations in National Bank Shares at the ring to-day embraced 300 sold for cash, opening at 255.50 and closing at 254.50, and 3,500 for end of month, opening at 258.50, falling to 257.50, and closing at 258; for end of May there were numerous buyers up to 262. Credito Real were a trifle weaker, closing at 137 for end of month and 140 for end of May. Bolsa Bank Shares were firm. La Plata Moles astonished the market by spurting up to 136 for end of month and 140 end of May, whilst Constructors still held their ground at 129 for cash and 131.50 end of month. Cedulas have settled down to a normal groove, out of which they refuse to stir, declining a few cents one day to regain their original quotation the next; the favourite series is still the Provincial N, which almost continues to monopolise the market.

The National Bank sold to-day £260,000 gold at 160 per cent, and we learn on good authority that the Bank will continue selling £200,000 gold, daily, to the highest bidder until the end of the month.

Advices from Tucuman announce that the cane crop this year will show a great falling off, owing to the losses caused by the rain; in some districts the plantations show a total loss.

The National Bank discounted yesterday 1,600,000 dollars between gold and paper.

The well-known quinta Las Palmas in Banfield has been sold to Mr. Gowland for 30,000$.

The Bolsa Correspondent in London wired the news to-day that a company has been formed with subscribed capital of £125,000 to start a refinery in this republic.

The prices of gold oscillated to-day between 160 and 161, closing at 160.20 for cash and 161 sellers for end of month.

The freight market is again fainting and shipbrokers were the glummest faces on 'Change. The rate is now down to 8 francs again. Many agents are sending their boats away in ballast, preferring this to loading at such rate.

The s.s. Napoli is reported arrived in Montevideo to-day, with 900 passengers and 300 tons cargo.

In reference to the news given by an evening paper that a firm which applied to the National Bank for gold at 159, and at which rate said bank refused to deliver, saying that the amounts given in the papers as granted, were simply applications, we are authorised to state that, on hearing of the matter, the Finance Minister gave immediate orders to deliver all the amounts at the prices quoted in to-day's papers. This shows that Minister Varela is determined to adhere to his programme and treat the market in every way above board.

Messrs. Vecchi Bey & Co., who hold a colony concession in the Chaco, have applied for extension of time to carry out their contract. We may observe that Vecchi Bey died two years ago.

The produce markets were in a state of semi-paralization, owing to the stand-from-under drop in gold. Brokers walked about with their hands immovably fixed in capacious pockets, implacably resolute not to touch anything, and it seems that nothing will be done until gold settles down.

The s.s. Orenoque which leaves this port for Bordeaux on 22nd inst, will not take any passengers from this port, being engaged to take the Portugal's passengers at Rio.

Business at the second hour shewed a welcome reaction in National Bank Shares which improved up to 259 and closed at that rate between buyers and sellers; it is said that plenty of money will be forthcoming to sustain the stock. Some Mercantile Bank Shares fetched 175 for end of month and La Plata Moles advanced to 136½ for same date. Credito Real and Constructors were steady. In Cedulas the only notable feature was the appearance of the new Provincial O series at 76½ which is a low rate, considering the interest paid and proves that the market is already overburdened with the stock.

The arrival is announced in B. Blanca of the American barque Soochoo with four million feet lumber for Mr. Muggeridge's sawyard. The same firm are expecting further arrivals.

The s.s. Provence, which sails on April 14th for Marseilles, takes the following passengers:—D G de la Fuente, Virjinia, Anjela, Dolores and Anjelina de la Fuente, A Vergara, J B and M Amarilla, Josefa Aguirre, V. and Manuela Aguirre, Luis Martinez and wife, Laurindo Castro and family, L Armengol, A Mazza, Ernesto Rosay, L Vionbino, Andres Suarez, Arm. and Enrique Beynet.

To-morrow evening Don Pedro Gartland and his partners in the Vinicola Argentina start for Naposta to inspect the new Irish colony and study the capabilities and requirements of each family. Hitherto but a very faint idea could be had on these delicate points owing to the confusion and bother of the first instalment, but now that things have settled down into something approaching order, a fair estimation may readily be arrived at. Besides, it is well to begin by defining the positions both morally and materially, for on this depend mainly the present happiness and future success of the colony. Already 150 wooden houses are made and inhabited, and the Company are contracting to sink artesian wells, which means scientific irrigation and endless water supply, thus rendering the lands a veritable gold-mine. We learn that as much as $200 m|n per hectares is offered by French nursery gardeners if the Company can guarantee the inexhaustible water supply, and every effort that genius and capital can suggest is being made to effect this grand consideration. A large box of medicine from the Botica Central, the gift of Sr. Dn. Marcos Maguasco, and a full file of late English papers from our office accompanied the cargo of provisions that Messrs. Gartland & Co. take with them for the benefit of our countrymen settled at Naposta. One of the Passionist Fathers is going down there next month to give a mission.

Mr. Luis Godoy has sold the house Corrientes 1146-48 for $55,000 m|n, or say 94 dollars the yard; buyer, Mr. Jose Horta.

The Times of March 15th contains the following resumen of the state of the market:—

"Prices on the Stock Exchange opened steady, but became flat early in the afternoon on sales of foreign stocks being made for Berlin account, accompanied by rumours that the Servian question was causing anxiety in Berlin and Vienna. It was also alleged that there was some increase of uneasiness in Paris, and a rumour was circulated that two more directors of the Bank of France had resigned; but this was disbelieved in well-informed quarters and has been contradicted to-night. The last prices reported from Paris showed a slightly firmer tendency, and quotations, as a rule, left off above the lowest. The Settlement has passed off satisfactorily to all appearance, no cases of default having been announced this evening, but one or two brokers have been assisted by their friends. The state of things in Paris is still such as to make prudent people here very chary of engaging in fresh business, and they are not likely to alter their attitude in this respect until the position of the Comptoir d'Escompte has become more accurately known than at present."

"At the meeting of the Bank of England held to-day, the Deputy-Governor, Mr. William Lidderdale, stated that the net profits for the half-year to February 28 were £763,369, the "rest" on that day being £3,778,081. He proposed a dividend of 5½ per cent, after payment of which the "rest" would be £3,014,048. At the meetings held in March and September last the dividends declared were each 5 per cent."

Messrs. Lamport and Holt have chartered the splendid passenger s.s. Costa Rican, to sail for Europe on 24th May, without touching on the Brazilian coast. A good chance for people going to Europe.

The following transactions in real estate are reported:—

San Jose, between Garay and Brazil, 8 x 52 metres for 10,800 m|n.
Corrientes s|n, 13x53 for 78.500 m|n.
